Man Murders Cousin Over Warming Pot Of Beans

November 06, 2009 15:18, 643 views

A 21-year-old student of Nigeria Institute of Management, Mojeed Abiodun, has been arrested for stabbing his cousin, 25-year-old Olaoluwa Fadipe to death.

The suspect, said he was washing a neighbour's car downstairs when his cousin, Olaoluwa Fadipe, asked him to warm beans for their grandmother. He said he told his cousin that he was washing a car and could not warm the beans.

Speaking further, he said his response angered his cousin who said he would have broken his head with a bottle had it been he had one with him, adding that an argument ensued which degenerated into a fight.

According to him, at a point, his cousin wanted to throw him down from upstairs.

He stated that rather than stop the fight, his cousin went inside, came back with a belt and an iron rod and attempted to use them on him, adding that he then took up a knife to scare him. Abiodun said his cousin attacked him with the iron rod and belt and that it was during the struggle that ensued that he used the knife to cut his cousin and because there was no immediate medical attention, he bled to death.

God Almighty deliver your children from poverty. That is the state of Nigeria where overnight pot of beans is valued more than a life. Exstreme poverty.

I wonder how some people reason. I have said it that the main problem in Nigeria is illiteracy as shown by the 2 idiots that made comments above.

I dont know when people will start to use their common sense. Their comments above show a deep lack of education and a sign of uncommon stupidity.

WOW, if that wasn't so sad it would be funny. May the dead's soul rest in peace but this is the most pathetic thing to fight about but if what the Abiodun said is true then it's not his fault but he should have just left the fight to his cousin.
