Robber Kills Chinese In Lagos

« on: August 10, 2011, 03:00 PM »

An expatriate was shot dead this afternoon on ACME Road, Ogba Industrial Estate, Lagos, Southwest Nigeria.

The expertrate who was shot dead this afternoon inside a company bus on ACME

Road, Ogba, Lagos

He was believed to be an accountant with Western Metal Products Company Limited, WEMPCO, located on WEMPCO Road, Ogba, and hailed from China. He was simply identified as Mr. Henri.

Eyewitnesses said he might have been trailed from a bank on Adeniyi Jones Avenue, Ikeja, where he had reportedly withdrawn an undisclosed sum of money.

The lone gunman shot him in the head inside the white company bus with Lagos registration number XM 318 LSD that was conveying him, and he died instantly.

According to the driver of the bus who was the only person with the expatriate when the incident happened, the gunman appeared from nowhere and shot him in the head, collected the money that had just been withdrawn from a bank and disappeared.

The driver was too shocked to speak further about the incident.

His corpse was later removed and deposited in the mortuary.

When our reporter visited his company's office, none of the staff was willing to comment on the incident.

Inside job. I'd say the driver knows who shot the Chinese man. Heck, he probably pulled the trigger himself.

Dont come to conclusion yet. The distance of the bank where he withdrew money and where he was shot is not upto 10 mins drive. So dont rule out robbery.

Sure. I won't rule out robbery. With the driver's involvement.

^^^ Comrade, I know what you mean. However, we know things seldom get investigated in great depth in Nigeria. Unless there's a monetary incentive, the NPF just rest their corns on the kerb, and do little else.

And I'm speaking from personal experience.
