

Woman Snatcher Stabbed To Death

CYRIACUS IZUEKWE

A man has reportedly stabbed his rival to death in Lagos after he caught him with his lover making love.

The 27-year old man, David Omoregbe, was arrested by the police in Lagos State, Southwest Nigeria, after he allegedly stabbed and killed his rival, Kehinde Owasoye, 25, for snatching his 22-year old lover, Bolodeoku Temisan.

The incident happened at the deceased's residence at 20, Adejojo Street, Isheri-Oshun, on the outskirts of Lagos.

The woman, Temisan, was said to be dating the two men and when they discovered, a fight ensued during which Owasoye was eventually murdered.

The lady at the centre of the controversy, was arrested with Omoregbe and charged with conspiracy and murder before a Yaba Magistrate's court, Lagos.

P.M.NEWS gathered from their neighbours that Temisan was dating both men until Omoregbe later discovered and warned her to stop seeing the deceased.

To ensure he won the fight, Omoregbe, a commuter bus driver decided to sponsor Temisan to learn tailoring.

But Temisan did not stop having affairs with Owasoye.

On the day the incident happened, Omoregbe was told that Temisan was at Owasoye's house.

After he traced them there and caught them in bed; he allegedly took a pair of scissors and stabbed Owasoye. And before he could be rushed to a hospital, he died.

Omoregbe and Temisan were arrested by the police at Isheri-Oshun division and the matter was late transferred to state Criminal Investigation Department, SCID, Panti, Yaba.

They are now facing a charge of murder contrary to sections 221 and 231 of the Criminal Code Laws of Lagos State of Nigeria, 2011.
