

Herdsmen invade farm in Oyo, kill pastor

The suspects were arrested by villagers in the community and taken to the palace of Soun of Ogbomoso, Oba Afolabi Ghandi Olaoye, from where they were handed over to the police.

By Fasilat Oluwuyi January 30, 2024 Reading Time: 1 min read

0

Three suspects have been apprehended in Ogbomoso, Oyo State for allegedly killing a pastor.

The pastor, identified as Evangelist Segun Adegboyega, had reportedly challenged the suspects, who he suspected to be Fulani herdsmen, for invading his farm and destroying his crops.

Thereafter, the suspects killed the pastor in Gege area, along Ogbomoso-Iseyin road.

PREMIUM TIMES gathered that the suspects were arrested by villagers in the community and taken to the palace of Soun of Ogbomoso, Oba Afolabi Ghandi Olaoye. The monarch later handed them over to the police at Owode police headquarter.

READ ALSO: Police declare Auxiliary, ex-Oyo State Parks committee chairman, wanted

The body of the deceased, it was learnt, has been deposited at the mortuary.

Meanwhile, Oba Olaoye sympathised with the people and urged for calm in the community.

He promised to work with the security agencies to ensure that justice is served.