A middle aged woman is now helping the police at Ejigbo in their investigation over the sudden death of her lover in a hotel room during sexual intercourse.

A reliable source gave the name of the woman as Mrs. Adebimpe Omogbehin, residing at Block 35, Flat 3, Phase 2, Adeniji Adele Housing Estate, Lagos Island.

The deceased, identified as Mr. Lanre Akingbohunbe, a senior staff of NNPC, Ejigbo depot, and a resident of Bariga was said to have secretly picked the woman from St. Andrew Catholic Church, Oke Popo area of Lagos Island where both of them worship, to Ejigbo Central guest house located at Ojoola Street, behind Ejigbo Bus Stop, to have sex last Friday at about 9.30pm.

After a round of sex, according to a source, the woman reportedly ran out of the hotel room and raised an alarm, calling for a doctor.

Instead of her to explain her plight to workers in the hotel she was said to have run out of the hotel room toward the bus stop to the surprise of residents around the street and workers
