A 70-year-old man's insatiable appetite for sex has led him to an early grave.

The Septuagenarian identified as David, slumped and died yesterday in Benin after having a marathon sex session with a married woman.

The incident happened at about 1pm in a hotel in the Government Reservation Area (GRA) of the Edo State capital.

The deceased's son, who declined to reveal his name, told journalists that his father left home 45 minutes earlier.

He said they were called by the police to come to the Benin Central Hospital only to see his father's corpse.

Doctors on duty at the hospital said David was brought stone dead to the hospital.

The late David's sex partner whose identity could not be ascertained, was also present at the hospital but policemen took her away to prevent her from being mobbed by a crowd of onlookers.

Meanwhile, David's corpse has been deposited at the Central Hospital morgue.
