FROM ATTAHIRU AHMED, Gusau

Zamfara state Police command is investigating the death of a housewife, Malama Inno, after she was allegedly slapped by her husband, Mallam Umaru in Jerin village in Wanke District of Gusau Local Government Area in the state.

It was gathered that the suspect was married to the deceased for over 40 years, and they were blessed with 12 children before the incident occurred.

Umaru was said to have committed the offence during a disagreement between the couple.

According to the village head of Jerin Duwatsu, Magaji Hamidu, the incident occurred when the late housewife protested an alleged injustice by her husband, who always favoured his stepwife on issues in their home.

The late Inno was said to have often protested the attitude of her husband, who was fond of fetching water for the stepwife described to be childless.

The village head said that the latest quarrel that led to the woman's death may not be unconnected with her dissatisfaction with her husband's desperation to make his stepwife comfortable while neglecting her.

He said that the suspect was angered by the attitude of late Inno and gave her the deadly slap.

When contacted, the State Police Command public relations officer, DSP Lawal Abdullahi, confirmed the incident, adding investigation was still on.

"When investigation is completed, the police within the shortest possible time, would arraign the
