The police have killed two suspected armed robbers during an exchange of fire in Abavo, Ika South Local Government Area of Delta State.

The suspects were fleeing from the town after robbing a petrol attendant of an undisclosed amount of money at a filling station (name withheld) when they ran into operatives of Dragon Patrol Team 05 of the state police command.

The operatives were said to have received a distressed call that armed robbers operating on a Lifan motorcycle had robbed within the town and were heading towards Urhonigbe in Orhionmwon Local Government Area of Edo State.

Narrating her ordeal, the petrol attendant, one Isioma Lawrence, said the hoodlums came into the filling station on the pretext that they wanted to refill their tank.

"When they came in the afternoon, they asked me to sell N600 into their tank, which I did and they gave me N1000. Immediately I gave them the N400 balance, the one on the passenger seat jumped down, brought out a gun and pointed it at me.

"He ordered that I should bring out all the money I had on me. He started to drag my phone with me and I decided to raise the alarm which attracted people who chased them away," she narrated.

Asked how much was collected from her by the hoodlums, Isioma told Daily Sun that she was yet to take note of her sales for the day when the bandits struck.

Confirming the incident, Police Public Relations Officer of the state command, DSP Celestina Kalu, said operatives embarked on a stop-and-search operation after receiving the distressed call.
