②
TWO persons were feared killed, many injured and property worth millions of naira were destroyed yesterday, when two rival cult groups, clashed in the Oworoshoki, area of Lagos State.

Five persons have been arrested by the police in connection with the fracas.

It was gathered that very early in the morning, two rival cult groups, in battle for supremacy engaged themselves in bloody clash.

It was gathered that trouble started on Sunday, during the Valentine celebration, when a member of one of the cult group was stabbed to death by another member of a rival cult group.

Yesterday, the deceased's cult group stormed the Oworoshoki area for vengeance.

A witness, Lukman Adebawale, said guns, machetes, raw acid, iron rod, charms and other dangerous weapons were freely used.

He said: "The hoodlums killed two persons believed to be members of the cult groups. I saw two dead bodies in different places. Many people sustained various degrees of injuries."

The State Police Public Relations officer (PPRO), Dolapo Badmos, said five persons have been arrested in connection with the cult war in Oworoshoki. She explained that normalcy has returned to the area.
