A woman, Charity Aba, who was abducted by gunmen in Otukpo, Benue State, last week Monday, was yesterday found dead.

The deceased, from Enugu State, was kidnapped in front of her house while waiting for her gate to be opened after returning from evening Mass.

State Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), ASP Moses Yamu, told Daily Sun yesterday that the remains of Aba was dumped at the Enugu Roundabouts in Otukpo town early hours of Sunday.

Yamu, who disclosed that the deceased body was found with a deep cut on the face noted that the abductors might have killed her somewhere and dumped the body in Otukpo, where she could be easily found.

Kidnapping is fast becoming worrisome in the State as there is hardly any week passes without a case of abduction reported.

Six weeks ago, the Vicar General of Otukpo Catholic Diocese, Rev. Fr. John Adeyi, was abducted in Okpokwu Local Government area of the state and is yet to be found dead or alive.
