

Police confirm murder of Mathematics teacher in Sokoto

THE Sokoto State Police Command has confirmed the alleged murder of a Lebanese, Mr Moin Amsuri, a Mathematics teacher, at the prestigious Nagarta College, Sokoto.

The spokesman of the command, El-Mustapha Sani, made the confirmation in an interview with the News Agency of Nigeria(NAN).

"The deceased was suspected to have been killed by gunmen who are now at large.

"The incident was said to have occurred last Thursday at his residence in Yauri flats, Sokoto, and it was reported to the Gwiwa Police Station on the same day.

"We are suspecting that the assailants were armed robbers as his Toyota car is still missing," Sani said

The spokesman said the command would not relent until the perpetrators of the nefarious act were fished out and brought to justice.

The funeral prayer of the deceased was conducted on Friday in Sokoto, according to Islamic rites.
