The body was discovered by her brother, Innocent Ogbonnaya, after several days of search.

Ogbonnaya said several cuts were found around the spinal cord of the victim's body, indicating that she resisted her attackers, who stabbed her to death.

Prior to the incident, Ogbonnaya said, 'nobody knew she was dead until his elder sister, Mrs Blessing Shaka, called her lines for days and became apprehensive after several calls. He said he visited her residence only to discover that there was no trace of their sister and her husband.

He explained how the deceased had called his elder sister few days before the sad incident took place, requesting to see her daughter who was living with them due to alleged unresolved family quarrels with the husband.
