

Left in the cold, she recoiled into her shell and did his bidding, eventually giving birth to a baby boy early 2015. A few months later, precisely on August 2, 2015, her guardian, Thomas Honga, died in an auto crash while on a trip to Lafia, Nasarawa State capital, to restock his shop. And that marked the beginning of another round of trouble for her.