

the problem.

firmed the arrest of the suspects.

Police parade man

THE Cross River Police Command has paraded a 35-year-old man, Sunday Ushie, who confessed to killing his girlfriend identified as Nnena Samuel and having sex with her corpse.

Hafiz Inuwa, acting Commissioner of Police in Cross River, who paraded the suspect before newsmen on Monday in Calabar, said the deceased was a mother of two.

He said the incident happened on January 27, 2017 at Adijinkpor village, in Ikom Local Government Area of the state.

According to him, "the incident happened on January 27, 2017, following a report at Ikom Divisional Police headquarters from one Cletus Etta of Adijinkpor village that his tenant had killed someone.

citizens in every part of the world in their legitimate endeavours."

defence with House of Reps Committee on Interior

for sleeping with girlfriend

"Upon receiving this information, my men swung into action and arrested the suspect. The suspect confessed to have killed the woman before having carnal knowledge of her.

"Investigation is ongoing after which the suspect will be charged to court for murder."

The Police Commissioner appealed to members of the public to continuously avail the command with useful information that would help it respond to emergency cases promptly.

In an interview with the News Agency of Nigeria (NAN), Ushie, a cocoa farmer, said the deceased never gave him the opportunity to have sex with her while alive.

He told NAN that he invited the deceased to his house and killed her with a knife before having sex with the corpse.

Ushie, who said he regretted the action, blamed the incident on the devil.

"It is the work of the devil. I do not know why the devil used me as the one that killed her. I kill