DSS officer kills man on Xmas Day

From Obinna Odogwu, Awka

TRAGEDY struck in Alor community in Idemili South Local Government Area of Anambra State on Christmas Day as a personnel of the Department of State Services (DSS) whose identity could not be ascertained gunned down a domestic staff of Emeka Eze, an engineer, in his residence.

But refuting the allegations that the act was perpetuated by a police officer, the spokesman of the state police command, Haruna Mohammed, a Superintendent of Police, in a statement, said that it was a DSS officer that killed the man while trying to stop a cow from escaping.

The statement reads: "The attention of the Anambra State Police Command has been drawn to a misleading report being circulated in the social media that Onyeocha Umuokwu was allegedly shot by a police officer at Engineer Eze's house on the 25/12/2019 in Alor community, Idemili South LGA of Anambra State.

"The above report probably orchestrated by mischief makers who want to portray the police in bad light is totally misleading."
