

Woman killed, buried in Imo farm

①

From George Onyejiuwa, Owerri

PALPABLE tension and anxiety have enveloped Umuaghara village in Alulu autonomous community in Ngor - Okpala council area of Imo State, following the killing of a woman in her farm.

The victim, Uwalu Justina, from Umunwadi village in Alulu autonomous community, but married to Nwankworji Oke of Umuaghara village, was on Sunday evening murdered and buried by her assailant in her own indigenous farm land.

A source in the community, who preferred anonymity, told Daily Sun that the community was thrown into confusion last Sunday evening, when the deceased was found in a shallow grave in her own village farm land.

He said: "The entire Alulu community was thrown into confusion last Sunday evening when it discovered that Justina Uwalu, who had gone to her farm in Umuaghara village, was killed by her assailant who now took her corpse and buried in a farm land in Umunwadi, which was her village before she got married to Oke Nwankworji of Umuaghara village, both in Alulu autonomous community."