

How security guard butchered former boss in Rivers

• I sneaked into her house at 3am, hid till 5pm before killing her – Suspect

From Tony John, Port Harcourt

CALAMITY recently befell the family of the former director of administration, University of Port Harcourt Teaching Hospital (UPTH), Mrs. Amamu Jumbo. She was murdered by her former security guard, identified as John Danjuma, on the evening of Tuesday, May 9, 2023, at her residence in the Government Reservation Area (GRA), Phase 3, Port Harcourt.

The suspect, who is now in police net, has confessed to killing his former boss, whom he served as a private security guard, popularly known as maiguard, at her residence in GRA in the state capital.

Danjuma perpetrated the dastardly act less than 48 hours after his release from detention, after securing bail from the court.

He was accused of stealing $10,000 from his madam. He was arrested, detained, charged to court and later granted bail.

Two days to when the case of alleged theft was to be heard in court, he went to the house of his former boss, broke the kitchen protectors, entered the house and allegedly slaughtered her. A source, who was identified as Dolapo Tella Attoni, the victim's in-law, gave an account of what happened.

Attoni said: "I left a murder scene at about 11pm yesterday (Tuesday) for the mortuary. Yesterday, an in-law of mine was murdered by her former security guard who was already standing trial in respect of theft of her properties, including cash. She (deceased) was to testify against him in court this morning.

• Mrs. Jumbo

"Soon after he was granted bail by the Rivers State magistrate's court hearing the case, he began to plot her elimination. So,

Two Sisters open ultra modern hospital in Anambra