Boko Haram Militants Kill Two District Chiefs In Borno

Posted: September 6, 2010 - 03:55

Late Boko Haram Leader, Mohammed Yusuf

By SaharaReporters, New York

Saharareporters has learned that adherents of the dreaded religious sect, Boko Haram, have killed two local district chiefs and shot another village warden in Maiduguri, Borno State.

The two district chiefs known, with the title of "Lawan," were slain behind the palace of the Shehu of Borno in a fierce twilight attack carried out by Boko Haram militants. The militants accused the chiefs of serving as police informants. The third victim of the attack, a Bullama, was shot in the leg and left for dead.

The brazen attacks have heightened tension in the area. Our sources said the palace of the Shehu of Borno and the areas surrounding it were thought to be beyond limits to Boko Haram militants because of the tight security in the area. One SSS officer described the area as the "green zone," a reference to the heavily fortified administrative area in Baghdad, Iraq, manned by US military security. "We were caught unawares," said the source, adding, "If Boko Haram could infiltrate the area, then they are a huge threat to lives and property."

Last year, the police and army quelled an insurrection mounted by Boko Haram adherents in Bauchi and Maiduguri, killing the extremist group's leaders. However, our sources revealed that the group had since re-organized and began small but effective attacks against security agents and local chiefs they believe were responsible for the clampdown on members of the group last year.

Local and international human rights groups accused the Nigerian police and soldiers of indiscriminate executions of innocent civilians in last year's reprisals against the Boko Haram. The government of former "President" Umaru Yar'adua promised to launch an investigation into the alleged widespread executions, but never did so.

Our SSS source revealed that the way the government killed innocent people helped the new Boko Haram leadership to recruit new members.

Lawans are districts heads while Bullamas are village wardens in the Borno emirate.

I dont mean to disrespect you, were you sober while typing your comments on SR? I smell College of education certificate holder on this blog or you are just a product of ASSU strike? Your response is filled with fallacy, I better not respond to your lame write up. Education and civilization is still a great challenge in your region.

So leaning other people's language to you is a sign of inferiority not a sign of strength? Honestly, you sounds like somebody that should not be out in the public unsupervised.

Opunim congrats!! You have just won yourself the bleeding obvious ignorant award with this kind of thought process. We may live in a crazy country, but you Opunim lives in a nuts creek town.

I do choke you in the creek and have boko haram militants take priority over you in this country.

@ Igbo Boy from California: Good governance? Oil? Did i hear u say that? 6 senate presidents in two years? Abducted governor? Mama excellencies and baby excellencies? Pls, pls, the Huasas left Kano for ANPP. The Yorubas left Lagos for AC, now ACN. U have keyed into that and u did it late without a roadmap! But poor imitation is the chief symptom of a starter. Soludo is crying foul. The Uba are living large. OUK, the strategist has changed party, leaving his own baby PPA,comatose!Obi and Anambra? The guy there is a nice guy on a very volatile environment- odina nwa ne we aknwu! Read Okey Ndibe's piece on how ill gotten wealth has destroyed the Igbo race. On oil i can tell u that that oil push ur fathers to the war front. Ver few of them returned. Those that did had their arms amputated or limping on clutches. It was that painful! Saro- wiwa died. Ifeajuna and Agbam died. Siwa as killed by the Nigerian State. Ifeajuna and his co travellers were killed by the defender his people freedom! For u, pls spell correctly. We want to know if actually u are in California or Alaba or Idumota or Diobu! Or somewhere in Libya or South Africa. Not thhat where u are matters. No, It is not where u are that matters but what u do and HOW u do it. That is the real thing!

It is a free world, say what you want to say but then be objective in whatever you say. Honestly i feel sad when people who know next to nothing about Islam but rely on western controlled media to tag any violent attack by muslims (or so called) as terrorism. In whichever religion we have brutal terrorists and sadists, but that is not enough to call adherents as terrorists. if we go down history lane we have Hilter, Mussolini, colonial masters who kill and brutalise to exploit colonised territories, the Guyana tragedy etc.all claim christianity but that does not mean that christain religion is terrorist, Please let us understand each other so that we all live in peace. I repeat that Islam is a religion of peace but that within Islam we have all sorts of people, so also with christianity and other religions. I am a muslim but i respect christianity and hold Jesus christ in high esteem. I expect similar respect from non muslims

This would serve u better: You seem to be very angry and yet u said u have accomplished much in ur 30(?) years! I wonder why u cannot be home to brandish ur accomplishments. We know better and how we are in Nigeria.I have respect for some guys from ur part of te country. They are my best friends; they are the best anywhere in the world. Accept to ur shame that some of ur kin are the leading 419ers, robbers, cheats, and ritualists that pretend to make it in another man's home. You cant bet wit ur borrowed name that ur part of the country is developed or more developed than the South-South or any part of Nigeria. Mark it: it pleases ur kin more to take up other peoples' name. They easily learn other peoples' language just to be part of the mainstream. Underneath that is the psychological need to belong! U can say u would prefer to live in Akwa or Aba or Onitsha(one-city ware house) to Port Harcourt or Yenegoa or Asaba?. Your type has given hustling a bad name- undershand activities. A psychologist has said that u people has the more survivalist instinct. My friend, it is not a pride. It is the shortsightedness of ur uncles and grandmas that lead to the killing of million villagers in the name of Biafra. Next time u dream of owning a country think of how to cause seas and canals to spring up in ur landlocked villages. A COUNTRY THAT IS LANDLOCK CANNOT COMPETE FAVOURABLY IN THE INTERNATIONAL ARENA. Some of ur good guys saw it and thought against ur dream; ur fathers and uncles branded saboteurs and took them to the stake. We saw it as a kind of trading- selling and buying, the Aba type, and we detoured. The west saw it and clung on Lagos to ur shame! Pls, give us ur name! Maybe ur forebearers might have been one of those who collected millions of pounds for arms and vanished to become importers of second hand shirts! Who can be wiser than Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe? @ Anonymous: it is elementary that he who owns the land owns the structure and the trees on it. If ur fathers ever, ever, ever built any house in Ph let his children come up with the valid, valid, valid papers giving him title to the land! Learn one thing and that too is elementary: Land is not capable of being stolen. Pls, return home to read and join us to build one Nigeria!

The South East will never depend on Oil cos we beleive in self struggle. Political statements from the likes of Atiku and IBB will be taken serious by docile/gullible humans like Deri and Opinum. Always trying to blame others for your been lazy and uncivilized. Your heroes can't govern Bayelsa state and you want the nation to be entrusted to them? Boko Haram shouldn't be a problem if we have a government of the people, by the people, for the people. Unfortunately, we don't. What is on board is the government of the people, hi-jacked by some people, for themselves. The so-called politicians are there only to STEAL, KILL & to DESTROY. Political assassinations all over the places go unchecked. People are crying, ruthless killings and genocide across the land, yet the government is care-free. Didn't you see the shameful debate in the 'law breakers chambers'-condemning the police on behalf of Boko? Their best will be to make vain promises.

All these will come to an end when there is a REVOLUTION that will enthrone a sincere & dedicated government. Then be rest assured, Boko Haram and the likes will be flushed out of existence.

Without the help of Dora GEJ won't have the balls to speak. If Nigeria should part ways your region will still be the most affected cos your leaders are uneducated militants. Take a look at Anambra state election and tell me if Northerners Influenced it? The late Ken Saro wiwa realised too late. Your People stole our properties in PHC and else where and you are proud of it? Bunch of lazy people. I visit Nigeria often and I am proud to be a resident of a country where people are judge by their contribution to the society and not the tribe they belong to. If GEJ is sincere he should allow EFCC to investigate his wife's looting.

BoKo Haram should do more

Submitted by killDcorrupt (not verified) on September 6, 2010 - 16:10.

Boko Haram should target the politicians and government thieves who are responsible for all the woes of the country. They should stop this nonsense muslim agenda or Jihad, instead, they should fight for social justice of their people and their future, especially. Most of the so called northern elite are old. This means that alot of them are aware that they will soon die. That explains why they are not interested in what will happen in Nigeria 10 or 15 years from now because many of them would be dead from old age by then. They monies that they all steal now are mainly for their children and grandchildren, and ofcourse, for marrying 13yr olds like Yerima did. What the youth of Nigeria should do including northern youths, is to target these elite criminals, their children and their family members and kill all of them - destroying their lives and that of their families is fair game. After all, is that not what they have done to Nigerian and Nigerians?

Thomas Jefferson, one of the founding fathers of the United States of America, in a letter to James Madison, another founding father, said: "a little rebellion now and then is a good thing" for America.

While many in Nigerians often say, "that is America, this is Nigeria," the fact that our democracy (so called) is modeled after America's democracy, and the fact that many in our government try to mimic what America is doing (of course, incompetently), then everything else "American" should also apply to Nigeria. Thomas Jefferson's advocating for violent revolution stemmed from his feeling that "the people had a right to express their grievances against the government, even if those grievances might take the form of violent action." So there is nothing illegal about talking about a revolution in a democracy.

So Boko Haram, zero in on the criminal political vultures that have stolen the collective wealth of our future, let you fight be for your social and economic justice, not religion.

WHEN THE POLICE ARE NOT INVOLVED...

Submitted by Judas Iscariot (not verified) on September 6, 2010 - 14:23.

Whether you like it or not, this guerrilla warfare is going to continue for a very long time. As long as some members of the security operatives are members of the sect, the end of the war can never be in sight. This war is going to be worse than the kidnapping in the South. In Nigeria strategic criminal operations are very easy to replicate and even have a way of being orchestrated. New improved tactics would be employed sooner than you can imagined. All along it has been with daggers and cudgels and locally made bombs. But now that everybody can have access to short guns, the sky is the starting point for any aggrieved person especially in the North. One strategy that they can easily employ (of course they know they will use it before long) is to drag the Christians into the war. How? Just get one or two pastors shot when delivering sermon on Sunday and before you know it the Christians will take up arms. Call me any name but be assured that the Sect members have their think-tanks. The North took their illiterate youths for granted. Unfortunately, they cant rely on the youth anymore in the event of katakata between the North and South. Sorry, I'm just thinking aloud. You still wanna bet?

Thank God Boko Haram members are out this time for their 'Muslim brothers'. If you want evidence they abound. The ones that shot the Lawans are known members of the community. They were identified but have fled and are being searched for. They are after the security operatives and their informants. Submitted by AUCitizen (not verified) on September 6, 2010 - 10:13.

Most parts of Nigeria are now self-governing. Politicians, police & army haven't a clue what's going on in that country. There are various militants in all parts of the federation. The media are too busy reporting sponsored reports by those who have paid them and haven't a clue what's going on under their noses. If you want to know what's going on in that mad region called Nigeria, only SR gives us news. For e.g. Hezbollah is alive & well in Nigeria. They hold parades with the late Ayatollah of Iran's portraits carried in marches, they have uniforms and everything. In the east, people are running militant camps with no bother from the authorities. They're mainly social organisations looking after people who have no help from authorities. Many are converting to militant Islam on the quiet as they see it as the way out of this unsolvable mess Nigeria is in. The day everything blows up the authorities would be caught with their hands in the till, pants down.
