Breaking News: Boko Haram Organizes Prison Break In Bauchi

Posted: September 7, 2010 - 21:31

By SaharaReporters, New York

The religious sect known as Boko Haram this evening in Bauchi State demonstrated the porousness of Nigerian security by carrying off an audacious prison break and freeing over 700 people being held in the federal prison there.

The prison is located in front of the palace of the Emir of Bauchi. Eye witnesses told Saharareporters that the group struck at about the time Muslims, including the Emir, were breaking their fast.

The Emir quickly vacated his palace while soldiers and police were being drafted from the nearby city of Jos. The governor of the state, Isah Yuguda, is currently in Saudi Arabia in observance of Hajj.

This is the third time in three days that the sect, which began an uprising in Bauchi last year, would strike.

As Sahareporters reported yesterday, Boko Haram militants have also killed district heads and a retired police officer in Maiduguri near the palace of the Shehu of Borno.

inferiority..Of preconceptions, misconceptions of frustration and insecurity. Above all there is fear..It is fear that sets the religious moods..To break this vicious circle, we have to concentrate all our assaults upon these religious fears in all its forms. Hatred and intolerance are not innate in people, they are the offspring of fear, just as fear is the child of ignorance. Bottom line,,We need to engage in a massive and intensive education and orientation of our people to be a stake holder in our common destiny.

Submitted by Anonymous (not verified) on September 8, 2010 - 13:55.

govt should put in place a criteria where all nigerians should have something doing and are being paid at the end of the month ranging from those who never attended school to the graduates on every street, it is only then will these crises end . and if any is found generating any form of crises he should be dealt with according to the law since he cannot complain of not having something doing. Remember an idol mind is devil's workshopour.

Is the hand of IBB and Buhari at play here?

Submitted by DERI (not verified) on September 8, 2010 - 13:50.

When u call on them to host SNC, the pretend to be looking for the meaning in their ethnic dictionaries. So Bako Haram must hold power. Awo, Abiola and Ken SaroWiwa would not have suffered the way they did, if one of the ethnic groups in the South, had not given the Northern leaders the go ahead. Balewa never campaigned in the entire South for even a day. Yet was sworn in as our president. Today we have a unifier in the person of Jonathan. But the same ideas that led to Balewa being installed as president, Awo jailed, Kensarowi hanged and Abiola murdered, are still there. If the North wants their progress to built around the ideas that Bako Haram represents, so be it. But not with the resources of the Niger Delta. Meaning its time for the 6 geo poli zones, to stop pretending as if all well, and calmly say goodbye to each other without pulling a gun.

Submitted by beirebe (not verified) on September 8, 2010 - 13:34.

nigeria has no democracy,northern politicians are the most unpopular in the world,none of them can socially stand to be politically relivance without playing religion and power propaganda card and employing the service of islamic clerics and sultan of sokoto making a statement, hence the importance of boko harams, maitasine and so on in northern politics.

Submitted by beirebe (not verified) on September 8, 2010 - 13:18.

obasanjo will kick himself even in the grave for supporting northern falsification of one nigeria, the only two political language of followership in the north is islam and we are in control and locationally disadvantage to the south,they dont need to campaign on education and health and social facility to get votes, if not why is all the socalled northern elite are in PDP? no northern politician can claim to be socially popular among their people like southern politicians that's why they find it very difficult to close ranks with any socially orientated political parties and their more civil leaders from the south,Atiku Abubakar is a good example of power apprehensive northern politicians.in the case of boko harram, they're part of northern agenda and they can only grow in numbers and the membership are loose across many saharan states of north and central africa.

The fact about problem of boko haram

Submitted by Samaila Abdullahi (not verified) on September 8, 2010 - 12:52.

Assalamu alaikum, my dear Nigerian it is about Boko Haram but they way our honourable leaders are treating their followers in the country, because if federal, state and local government are taking care of student that have graduated from various institutions in the country, isha allahu wallahi there will be nothing like any crises in the my great country Nigeria. So please my advice to the government of Nigeria is to please take care of every citizen that graduate so that we will have peace in our country. Wassalam. The problems with northern

Submitted by THE COCK (not verified) on September 8, 2010 - 11:20.

The problems with northern Nigeria begins with the fact that they have no religion of their own unlike in the west, east and south where they even though have the imported religions but still have that African religion that guide them, because they never throw away their natural religion and culture and therefore still have a baseline to stand upon, but the northern Nigeria have been striped naked and washed with [foreign] Arabia religion hence they are easily infested with any anything that comes out of their host .If you doubt me just wait and hear for example if the Arabs kill their king today then expect those in northern Nigeria to follow suit as from tomorrow because all they now do is copy and do and not copy-examine-cross check with your tradition-modify to work in your environment before acceptance

Submitted by Judas Iscariot (not verified) on September 8, 2010 - 11:15.

Remember Anini saga in Benin some years back? Our security operatives especially the Police is polarised. Some are members of the Boko Haram sect and they are more loyal to the sect than the they are to the Nigerian State. Should I become a Local Govt Chairman in the South I would ensure that military training would be part of the curriculum for Primary to University level. Reason is that the North has already trained their youth in Gun handling. The next ten years shall never see us together. From the sixth year from now hence blood shall be the tar that would be used for our roads.

Jones knows that he would not be breaking any law by burning the Qu'ran. Point of correction; Jones is not burning just a copy of the Qu'ran but as many copies of it he can lay hands on. He has asked people of like mind to send copies to him and I just sent 49 copies. What are you waiting for?

Well said Sani Bello & Rommel

Submitted by AUCitizen (not verified) on September 8, 2010 - 10:27.

Boko Haram is a result of 50 years of misrule. Some SR readers who live in America fall for this neo con bullshit that somehow any muslim fighting for his rights is a fundamentalist who hates Christians and the west. Boko Haram has no concern about the south except to the extent that they see it as harbouring moral decadence and personal corruption. The south of Nigeria has its own Boko Haram - cultists in the southwest, armed robbers and kidnappers in the rest of the south. They're worse terrorists than Boko Haram. The decadent and immoral version of Christianity practised in Nigeria means it has no strength and is about to be wiped out. I have no problem with Boko Haram as long as they only punish the corrupt and vile elite and leave ordinary Nigerians alone.

Whether we like it or not, the moral decadence in Nigeria can only be cured by a revolution along the lines of Libya & Iran. We all run off to Dubai to enjoy its delights. How do we think they created this? By having a zero tolerance of immorality and crime. This is what Boko Haram in their own way are trying to achieve. We should ask how many supporters they have in the army and other high places in Nigeria.

If the Boko Haram poeple had confined thier attack to the Government and not innocent christians and muslims like thier fellows bothers and sisters fighting for the struggle in the west and east had done, they will enjoy popular mass support.

Yet they are rolling out drums to celebrate 50 years of failure in all levels of governance, yet people like buhari and ibb who stole the money for these people education are roaming free. Shame! Shame! Shame! No security, No power, No Portable water, No good roads, No food, No well equipped hospitals and schools. What do we have alimajiris that can protect themselves better than the Nigerian Police and political looters emptying the treasury. Hurray! Nigeria is 50.

Nigerian govt should act

Submitted by shinjitsu on September 8, 2010 - 09:40.

The level of illiteracy in Nigeria is alarming and most of its citizens don't even understand the true meaning of democracy.To them it means freedom to do whatever they like without being punished severely. From boko haram in the north to the militants in the niger delta and then the kidnappers in the east.

The Nigerian govt should take a hard stance on all acts of lawlessness in order to serve as a deterrent to other aspiring trouble makers.

Instead, our current leaders are busy inflating contracts that will be approved during the weekly Contract Approval Meeting (CAM).

So much blood has been lost within one month. In Lagos area alone three avoidable road camages in quick succession claimed countless lives and destroyed property worth millions of Naira.

Now it is Boko Haram wahala. Why all these senseless bloodletting? Where do we go from here. The most disturbing aspect of all these is that our leaders keep chasing rats when our house is on fire.

Submitted by Northern Nigeria (not verified) on September 8, 2010 - 06:55.

The emergency of Boko Haram in the Northern part of Nigeria is the ineptitude of the leaders of Northern extractions that had refused to educate the Children of the Northern people. The Oil money that is shared to them is used to marry more and more wives and marrying a child Girl from Egypt hiding under the liberty granted by Holy Islam. Boko Haram ie Western Education is evil is being thought in all homes of the poor in the North. The death of Nigeria is near.
