I'm insane, says man accused of murder

By CHRISTOPHER OJI & MATTHEW DIKE

Thursday, September 16, 2010

A 20-year-old man in Lagos, Marcelos Madukwe, who allegedly tortured a woman to death, has blamed it on insanity. "I am a psychiatric patient," he told detectives.

The suspect allegedly beat 40 years old woman to death and told his investigators he didn't know when he committed the alleged offence. "I was only told at the hospital that I killed somebody," he said.

The suspect, however, spoke from both sides of the mouth, when he told journalists that he forgot the hospital, where he was being treated as a psychiatric patient.

The victim was said to be living with the suspect's mother in the same room before her tragic death. The duo had misunderstanding, which resulted in a fight, which claimed her life.

The victim was beaten to a pulp and was rushed to the Lagos University Teaching Hospital (LUTH), Idi-Araba, where doctors confirmed her dead. Detained at the State Criminal Investigation Department (SCID), Panti, Yaba, Lagos, Madukwe insisted he was out of his senses when he committed the dastardly act.

He said: "I think I was depressed at the time I killed her. I was moody when I knocked on the door but couldn't recall what transpired after. My family loved that woman too much. She was ejected by her landlord and my mother accommodated her."

Pensive Madukwe, however, pleaded for forgiveness. On the cause of his depression, he claimed it was because of his father who travelled to London nine years ago, abandoning them in Nigeria. Commenting on his alleged insanity, Lagos police spokesman, Mr. Frank Mba, said everyone
