Missing policemen found dead

Police in Adamawa State have confirmed that the two Mobile policemen declared missing on Sunday following an attack on three villages in Demsa Local Government Area of the state had been found dead.

The state Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), SP Othman Abubakar, said in Yola yesterday that the men were found drowned in a River.

"They were found dead; drown in the river," Othman said.

Othman, who did not give details, said the police were still hunting for the attackers and so far no arrest had been made.

The police had on Sunday declared three Mobile policemen dead with two missing along with four rifles following an attack by suspected herdsmen on Kwayine, Gidan Dadi and Karlahi villages of Demsa local government area.

The MOPOL were among those drafted to contain tension in the communities after clashes that followed the killing of 47 cattle in the area.

Governor Muhammad Bindow had condemned the attack, which occurred less than 24 hours after a government delegation on peace building mission visited the area.

The governor, in a statement signed by the Commissioner for Information and Strategy, Mallam Ahmad Sajoh, directed security agencies to deploy more personnel to the area.

Bindow, according to the News Agency of Nigeria (NAN), described the attack as unfortunate and sad especially coming after recent peace and confidence building efforts.
