A mild drama occurred yesterday morning at Ogba, Ikeja, Lagos State, following the mysterious death of two lovers inside a Toyota Corrola car. A witness said the man and his alleged mistress, believed to be a married woman with kids, were having sex in the car when they suddenly died.

They were allegedly found naked. The duo was reported to have driven to an area behind a popular journalism school in Ogba, to engage in sex. At the time passers-by saw them, the car engine was still running and the air conditioner was on and working, indicating they did not die of suffocation.

The witnesses raised the alarm and reported to the Area G Police Command. Policemen promptly rushed to the scene. When contacted, the Lagos State Police Command Public Relations Officer (PPRO), Olarinde Famous-Cole, said the corpses had been taken to the mortuary. Famous-Cole said: “Yes it is true. When information got to the area command, our men raced to the scene, and conveyed the corpses to the mortuary. Police commenced further investigation and an autopsy would be carried out on the corpses.
