

Adamawa: Two suicide bombers die in botched attack

Two suspected Boko Haram suicide bombers were killed yesterday after a botched attack on Gulak, headquarters of Madagali Local Government Area of Adamawa State.

The Executive Secretary of the Adamawa State Emergency Management Agency (ADSEMA), Dr. Muhammed Suleiman, disclosed this in an interview in Yola.

Suleiman, according to the News Agency of Nigeria (NAN), said three suspected bombers had targeted the Seminary Church in Gulak for attack, but the Improvised Explosive Device (IED) on them exploded midway, killing two, while the third ran into the bush.

He said: "We received a report that three suspected Boko Haram members targeted Seminary Church in Gulak for attack about 8.30a.m., on Sunday.

"Two of them detonated their IEDs and turned into pieces while the third one ran into the bush."

Sulaiman said their remains had been buried.

He said no other person was killed or injured during the attack, adding that only a small girl was hit by the debris and she was still alive.

When contacted, the state Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), SP Othman Abubakar, confirmed the attack.
