peratives of the Edo State Police Command have arrested a middle aged woman, Eki Ekhaton, for allegedly killing her husband.

Eki was alleged to have squeezed the manhood of her husband, which led to his death. The incident was said to have happened at Ukhiri community in Ikpoba-Okha Local Government Area.

Sources said the woman had a quarrel with her late husband after accusing him of infidelity. She was said to have always had fracas with her husband any time he returned home late.

It was gathered that on the fateful day in question, the deceased slapped his wife after a fracas. The woman went for his trousers and held onto his manhood in a violent manner. The man collapsed and was later confirmed dead at the hospital. It was learnt that men of the Homicide Department in the Edo State Police Command are currently investigating the case. The suspect has blamed her action on the devil.
