O

ne person was shot dead Thursday night around Sango area of Ibadan, Oyo state capital, while another sustained injuries when two rival cult groups: Eiye and Ake Confraternity members struck.

The victims according to a reliable source were ex students of The Polytechnic, Ibadan.

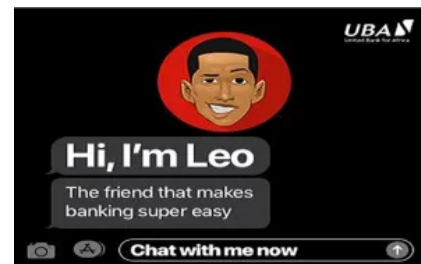

According to residents of the area, one of the victims, who was shot dead, was identified as Ibrahim Adekola, popularly known as "Alhaji 007", while the other was simply identified as Isan.

Alhaji 007 was reportedly killed in a reprisal by the opposing group at a drinking joint around Oju Irin area, Elewure, Sango, Ibadan.

The development left residents of the communities around The Polytechnic Ibadan in palpable fear as there were threats of further attack.

Alhaji 007 Sunday Telegraph learnt, studied Electrical Electronics at the Polytechnic and was supposed to graduate in 2010 but he could not due to carry-over of some courses.

Police Public Relations Officer, Oyo State Police Command, Gbenga Fadeyi (SP), conformed the incident. "It was true that one person was shot dead at Sango Elewure area of Ibadan. Before police could get to the scene, the victim had been shot dead. His remains had been deposited in the Adeoyo Hospital morgue.
