

Delta robbery kingpin dies in police, gang's shootout

Taiwo Jimoh

There was jubilation at Amukpe in Sapele Local Government Area of Delta State at the weekend after a police patrol team shot dead a notorious armed robber, identified as Diamond aka Fowlboy.

Fowlboy had terrorised residents of Amukpe for a long time. The suspect had been on the police wanted list before he met his end.

The state Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), DSP Bright Edafe, said in a statement yesterday that there was a shootout between the police and the notorious armed robber's gang.

He said: "The armed robbers had been terrorising residents of Sapele for some time now and the police had been on their trail before he (Fowlboy) was finally gunned down

"The deadly armed robber met his Waterloo on Saturday, June 26, after a distress call was received by the Divisional Police Officer, Sapele Division, from Tropical area of Amukpe that a three-man gang of armed robbers was in the house of one man (name withheld) at Amukpe, Sapele.

New blood test

Appolonia Adeyemi

Researchers in the United States (U.S.) have found a new one-and-done blood test designed to detect as many as 50 different types of cancer to be accurate