A 15-year-old female nanny, Chiamaka Odo, has been arrested for allegedly strangulating her mistress's six-month-old son and drained his blood into a bowl in Lagos State. The suspect who claimed that she killed the boy on the instructions of the occult group she belongs to added that she was also asked to drain the blood of the baby in a bowl for a spiritual purpose.

Chiamaka was paraded at the Lagos State Police Command's headquarters in Ikeja yesterday with other suspects over the killing of the toddler.

The suspect, a native of Anambra State, while answering questions from journalists said she was initiated into the occultic group by her friend when she was in primary school. ^

She said: "The first time I slept after eating the biscuits, I met myself in their midst and they welcomed me. When I was coming to Lagos, they asked me what I was going to do in Lagos and I told them that I am going for a nanny job. "On February 5, 2022, being a Saturday night, they asked me to bring the baby that I was babysitting, I said no, but they said they will strangle me if I refused.

They insisted that I should call the baby's name four times and they gave me a bowl that it will be filled with blood when I call the baby's name four times, this was done through our spiritual power.

"Members of my group used to appear to me in the dream whenever I sleep, I see myself in 'Ogoloma'. I started working with the family in January.

Since I joined the group, I wanted to leave but they did not permit me. Whenever I want to go to church, I will be tired and not be able to move my body until the church finished their service before I would feel okay again.
