Gunmen have killed a retired Customs officer, Micah Gochin and abducted his son in Plateau State. A community source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, told journalists that the retired customs officer was attacked around 11:00 pm on Sunday in his residence. He was learnt that the kidnappers who positioned themselves around the residence of Gochin along Bauchi Ring Road, opposite the University of Jos, staff quarters forced their way into the house.

According to a source, while they held occupants of the house hostage, they went straight to Gochin's bedroom and shot him at close range and left him to die in a pool of his blood.

The source added that after the dastardly act, the gunmen on their way out of the house abducted the son of the retired Customs officer and took him away on a motorcycle.

Plateau State police spokesman, DSP Alfred Alabo, who confirmed the incident, said before the teams led by the DPO Nasarawa and Larantobo could get to the scene of the incident the gunmen had fled.

Alabo noted that the policemen conveyed the deceased to the hospital where he was confirmed dead, adding that the Command was making effort to apprehend those behind the act and rescue the son of the retired Customs officer.
