The Anambra State Joint Task Force on Security said it recorded a major success on Tuesday when a detachment of the security outfit gunned down an alleged trans-border gunman popularly known as Odumodu.

This is coming less than 24 hours after the state government established nine security camps along the borders of Anambra State based on the belief that the gunmen come into Anambra State from the neighboring states.

Also neutralised are four of his gang members who were confronted by the officers and men of the Task Force while on operation.

Odumodu is said to have a camp in Imo State where he allegedly operates from into Anambra

State and he is being accused of being behind most operations that had led to the loss of several lives.

According to a release from the Press Secretary to Gov Charles Soludo, Mr Christian Aburime; the dreaded Odumodu, leader of a criminal gang, operating from Imo State into border towns in Anambra was gunned down by the gallant Anambra security forces with four others.

One Ak47 and four Pump Actions were recovered from the criminals by the gallant Security Forces

But the Anambra State Police Public Relations Officer, DSP Tochukwu Ikenga is yet to confirm the report.

Recall that the Task Force had gunned down four suspected kidnappers around Nkpor Umuoji Ideani road in Idemili North and South local government areas.
