

Another Business Man Assassinated In Onitsha

Onah Onah

3 mins ago

2 minute read

There is palpable tension in Onitsha and environs in Anambra State following the murder of a businessman, Sir Edwin Umealo. Umealo was last seen attending a meeting at Oba, Idemili South Local Government Area of the state and has since not returned. His decomposing body was however discovered on a road by a bush.

New Telegraph learnt from a competent source that the victim, popularly called Sir White by his friends and business associates was possibly killed on his way back to his Asaba, Delta State home. Sir Umealo who New Telegraph learnt hails from Umuze in Orumba South Local Government Area of Anambra State, one of the communities in the state and was returning home when the assassins struck.

Our source said that his assailants shot and left him to die in the pool of his blood inside his SUV without taking any valuable, indicating that the cash with him were said to have been left intact when Police came and took his corpse away to the mortuary.

Family sources say they believe he must have been trailed from where he attended the meeting. Umealo who is a businessman at Ogbofere Market in Onitsha. When contacted, the Anambra State Police Command Public Relation Officer, Tochukwu Ikenga, could not be reached as at the time of filing the report.