

Gunmen Kill Civil Servant On Way From Beer Parlour In Ondo

 Babatope Okeowo  56 seconds ago   2 minute read

Suspected gunmen have killed a 45-year-old civil servant on his way home from a beer parlour in Kola Rewire area of Ondo West Local Government Area of Ondo State has been killed.

The death of the civil servant, who worked with Ministry of Natural Resources in forestry department, has thrown the people of the area into confusion.

The deceased identified as Moshood, a.k.a, ‘Omo Olopa’, was with his friends at a beer parlour in the Akure garage area of the town, prior to the incident.

It was learnt that the deceased, while on his way home, was waylaid and killed by suspected gunmen. The unfortunate incident has continued to generate reactions in the town, as family and friends wore sad look while some were seen in groups discussing the incident.

The police have beefed up security in the area to forestall reprisal from some groups who are said to be planning to avenge the death of the victim.

A police source who confirmed the incident, said investigation into the matter was ongoing. He said immediately the police were alerted by the people in the area, policemen were mobilised to the scene, and the corpse was evacuated to an undisclosed mortuary in the town.