Fresh facts have emerged on the killing of a Naval Rating in Ajegunle, Ajeromi-Ifelodun Local Government Area of Lagos State on Saturday.

New Telegraph had reported the killing of one OS Harrison, a Rating with the Nigerian Navy serving in Lagos area.

Harrison was shot dead around 8pm along Olowojeunjeje Street, Ajegunle by a criminal gang clash.

Eye witnesses in the area alleged that prior to the killing of Harrison by the suspected cult members, there was previous killings in the community that called for concern.

The witness alleged that a member each from Aiye and Eiye were killed on Tuesday, June 20, 2023 at Amukoko and another on the night of Wednesday, June 21, 2023, along Nosamu Street respectively.

"The clash was a reprisal attack between rival gangs suspected to be members of One-Chance gang, terrorising the Ajegunle general area," the source who identified himself as Jojo said it is becoming unbearable.

Jojo explained that there have been a long history of inter-cult clashes within the communities
