

Two brothers killed

Another resident of Awka, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the issue of cultism is a serious matter that requires urgent attention from the government, asking themselves, parents and the country be killing each other for no reason.

“I would recall that last year, two young men who are cult members were clubbed to death in a sunny afternoon in a public glare, because of land related issues. The worse, they were killed to reclaim land and politicians also use them during elections. ”

After the two brothers were buried, their younger brother was initiated into cultism, immediately his family members got wind that he has been initiated, he was taken out. A dangerous part of the issue now is that secondary school boys and girls are being initiated into cultism. It's a serious trend in the South East now and governments in the region are not doing enough to stop it.
