

Chief Imam, Okada Rider Killed In Fresh Plateau Attacks

New Telegraph Admin

January 4, 2024

2 minute read

The Chief Imam of Jumma'at Mosque of Ndun village of Tan- gur District of Bokkos Local Government Area of Plateau State, Malam Muhammad NSCDC Gambo, have been killed. The Chairman of Gan Allah Fulani Development Association (GAFDAN), Garba Abdullahi, who confirmed the incident yesterday, Idris, was injured during the attack and is receiving treatment at Dung Hospital in Bokkos town.

The chairman said the incident had been reported to security agencies in Bokkos for immediate actions. The latest killings of the two herders came barely a month after more than 150 people killed. Narrating how the incident occurred, the GAFDAN chairman said, "The chief Imam and his younger brother were attacked on Monday night, they left from the recent attacks where houses of our members were burnt down.

"So, they went there to see if they could pick some of their property but suddenly were attacked. The hoodlums killed the Imam while his younger brother was an okada rider and our member, was killed on Monday around Bok- kos Market while bringing a passenger to the area. We have reported the two incidents to the police," he added.

When contacted, neither the spokesperson of OPSH, Captain Oya James nor that of the state police command, DSP Alabo Alfred, responded to inquiry as at the time of writing.