

Man kills online girlfriend for refusing to lend him N2m

Oyo State Police Command on Friday paraded a 35-year-old man, Bolarinwa Segilogbon, for attacking and killing a girlfriend he met on Social Media, for failing to loan him the N2 million he requested from her.

The 34-year-old deceased, Amdalat Afeez, who was trading in Ponmo via Social Media, met Bolarinwa through Facebook and they later became friends. Having met physically five times in Ibadan, the suspect invited her to be linked to a buyer who wanted to make a bulk purchase.

According to the Police Commissioner, Ayodele Sonubi, "on July 7, 2024 at about 0800 hrs, one Ajao Babatunde 'm' of No. 48, Ore-Ofa Community, Ologuneru, Ido Road, Ibadan in company of (4) others came to Eleyele Police Station and reported that at about 0600hrs of same date, they found a lifeless body of an unidentified woman lying in the pool of her blood.

"The complainant reported further that at about 0800hrs of the same date, they saw the suspect, Bolarinwa Segilogbon 'm' covering the blood of the deceased with sand. The suspect was apprehended upon timely information, and upon questioning, has since voluntarily confessed to the crime. The deceased, Amdalat Afeez, 34 years old, sells Ponmo Online. The suspect confessed to having met her online demanding a meeting to connect her with people interested in making bulk purchases, but instead in a rather disturbing twist of events, he violently took her life when they eventually met".

Speaking with Sunday Telegraph, Bolarinwa, an aluminium bender of Ilesa, Ogun state origin, confessed thus: "I met Amdalat Afeez on the Internet. She was selling ponmo(Hides) online. We were chatting on social media. We were talking as friends, and we were able to meet about five times before that day. I called her to meet me at Oloogbo area of Ido Local Government where I asked her to loan me N2m, but she refused. I felt angry and pushed her against an object. She fell and I hit her with a plank. She was begging me not to kill her, but when I knew that she could later report me, being that she knew my house, and I didn't want people around to know, I then killed her by hitting her on the head with a block", he said.
