The newly appointed Assistant Coach of Shooting Stars Sports Club (3SC) in Ibadan, Oyo State, Akin Olowookere, yesterday collapsed and died in Ogun State.

Olowookere was among the latest coaches hired for the club, as he recently joined the team after the departure of the previous coaching staff led by

New Telegraph gathered that Olowookere collapsed on the pitch during practice and was immediately rushed to an undisclosed nearby hospital. Details surrounding the circumstances of his death remain unclear, and official statements have not yet been released. The death of Olowookere, a prominent figure in the football community, has left many in shock.

Meanwhile, the All Progressives Congress (APC) in Oyo state has described the passing of Olowookere as most shocking and devastating, as it hampers the quest to return the team to the path of glory.

In a statement issued today and made available to journalists in Ibadan by its Publicity Secretary, Olawale Sadare, Oyo APC lamented Olowookere's death, expressing grief for the deceased but also for the 3SC family and the global soccer community.
