

3 Killed in Port Harcourt

No fewer than three persons were feared dead in an early evening explosion yesterday when some boys suspected to be cultists stormed Rumuola road where they shot dead an unidentified man and threw explosives which killed another two.

The incident which took place near the Rivers State College of Arts and Science caused a lot of a stampede which left some innocent people severely injured. Eyewitness accounts have it that some boys stormed the area on commercial motorbikes popularly called "okada" and shot a man at close range before they started firing sporadically and in the end threw some explosives suspected to be dynamites in the area before retreating.
