

2 YabaTech Students Shot Dead

Two students of Yaba College of Technology (YABATECH) were on Monday shot dead by persons suspected to be members of a cult group. One of the yet to be named students was said to be an ND II part-time student of the Department of Mathematics and Statistics, while the other also of the same department but his level of study yet to be confirmed as at press time. Efforts to get official confirmation of the incident proved abortive. It was however gathered that the students were shot at close range between the hours of seven and eight in the evening opposite the female-hostel popularly known as Akata. According to a source, the assailants were said to have come from another institution, with their targets in mind. They shot them at close range and also shot into the air to scare other students away.