

Wednesday, October 3, 2007

BRIEFLY

Midnight Blaze Claims 9

There was a reported fire outbreak along the National Stadium bridge, Ojuelegba, Surulere, Lagos, yesterday night. The fire incident which was said to have started at about 11.33pm, was caused by a petrol tanker which exploded on top of the bridge sending fireballs in different directions leading to the burning of about nine vehicles. As at the time of going to press nine people were said to have perished including a pregnant woman. In a swift reaction, the Lagos State Government said it is on top of the situation and will do everything possible to ensure free flow of traffic while assuring that the injured will be given adequate medical attention.