

Gunmen Kill Businessman, Rob Judge, Ex-Guber Candidate

Gunmen numbering six yesterday killed a businessman, the Managing Director of a Lagos-based Citicomic Nigeria Limited, Mr Cyril Adegbenro.

The man was killed at a point between the Ala Police Station and Special Anti-Robbery Squad (SARS) station by six men who rode on three motor cycles popularly called okada.

THISDAY gathered from an eye witness close to the scene that the gunmen in an attempt to force the deceased vehicle, a 2008 Toyota Avensis car with the registration Number LAGOS CY 888 FST to stop, shot severally into its tyres all of which missed their target.

However, the gunmen later levelled up with the vehicle being driven by the deceased as he was moving towards Ala Road which was some metres to the SARS station. As the man stopped, the gunmen fired several shots on him killing him instantly after which they opened the boot of his car and removed something which those close by said they did not know.

The yesterday's killing of Adegbenro came less than 24 hours after another businessman, Mr Dayo Ogunmolayi, 49, was shot by armed robbers who operated in similar manner (using okada) at the Ijapo Estate Gate.
