The Police Public Relation Officer (PPRO), ASP Apev Jacob, said: "On receipt of the information, the security personnel rushed to the scene but by the time they got there the attackers had already escaped."

He said they however did not steal or destroy anything in the house.

He said efforts were on top gear to track down the fleeing suspects and investigations into the case have commenced.

According to the police, a similar incident occurred on the same date and the same time at Gohog village in Vom district of Jos South local government area, where one Douglas Jang was killed and 37 cattle rustled.

The police again reiterated its earlier call that members of the should endeavour to volunteer information to security agencies on time in respect of any movement of suspected persons in their domains for appropriate action, adding that security business is a collective responsibility.

Over 200 persons have been killed in Jos since December.
