

DEATH AND A WEDDING CEREMONY

Like the twilight of sordid reality, death has cast a dark pall on the household of Abuja top society woman Bisola Emmanuel. She is bereaved at the moment. And the reason is not far-fetched: the dashing woman received the news of her husband Yinka's sudden death a few days ago. Yinka was allegedly killed by armed robbers when he traveled to Lagos to connect a flight to the United Kingdom. Yet-to-be-identified gunmen shot the late jolly good guy and snuffed life out of him. He was travelling back to the UK to attend the wedding ceremony of one of his kids, which was to take place last weekend in Dundee, Scotland. Bisola has been disconsolate since the news of her husband's death reached her in London. All efforts to pacify her have come to naught, as she is yet to come to terms with the fact that her soulmate with whom she shared a very tight bond has passed away. But the worst hit by the unfortunate incident, however, are the bride and the groom. Though the family back home in Nigeria had tried to keep the news away from them, they were eventually told due to their apprehension over their inability to see their dear father. These certainly aren't the best of times for Bisola and her loved ones.

ABIOLA FAMILY AND BIBLICAL BABEL

Like the biblical residents of Babel, the family of late MKO Abiola seems to be speaking in tongues at present. In the wake of the 20th anniversary celebration of June 12, some of the family, friends and well-wishers expressed gratitude to Nigerians for choosing to honour their late husband, father and democracy hero. However, while this was going on,
