Cultists Target Anti-cult Activists

Following recent arrest and rustication of cult members from various tertiary institutions as a result of activities of anti-cult groups who act as informants to security operatives, a lot has been achieved. However, these anti-cult activist who have been at the vanguard of the struggle to rid campuses of higher institutions of cult groups are fast beating a retreat; having been at the receiving end of the numerous bloody attacks of cultist whose network have spread across the country as well as surrounding neighbouring countries. According to reports, on July 17th 2014, a student leader at the University of Abuja, Chibuzor Okereke, who headed an anti-cult campaign, was stabbed to death by suspected cultists while another anti-cult activist, Ayodele Afolabi, at Benue State University in May 2014, was abducted by suspected cultists. His corpse was later found in an uncompleted building in Gboko, Benue State. It was also gathered that in March, at a traditional marriage ceremony between one Mr. Chijioke and one Miss Tochukwu in Alaoji village, Abia State, suspected cultists stormed the venue and abducted the groom who was said to be the family member of a pioneer anti-cult activist, his whereabouts is still unknown.
