A clash between herders and farmers in Gora Village of Katsina State has left about 12 people dead, the News Agency of Nigeria (NAN), reports.

"The violent clash took place when a herdsman pushed his cows into the farm of a farmer who was harvesting his beans," the Katsina police spokesperson, Isah Gambo, told NAN.

A source told the agency that the incident occurred late Tuesday evening during which the herder allegedly killed the farmer.

The source further alleged that the relatives of the farmer retaliated and also killed the herder.

According to the source, when the relatives of the herder got the information that their brother had been killed, they trooped to Gora and started shooting at the farmers in sight.

No fewer than 12 persons were feared dead and nine injured during the clash at Gora Village of Safana Local Government Area of Katsina State.
