Four person have reportedly been killed in two communities in Akwa Ibom State during a cult war that erupted last Sunday.

The affected villages are: Udianga Anem and Obon Ebot in Etim Ekpo Local Government Area, Ikot Unah and Ikot Ibekwe in Ukanafun Local Government Area.

For the past three months cult war involving Debam and Iceland confraternities has been going on in the two local government areas of the state.

It was gathered that a notorious cult leader from the Iceland confraternity group identified as Otto, from Obon Ebot village in Etim Ekpo Local Government Area was alleged to have masterminded attack against the rival members of Debam confraternity.

An eyewitness said Otto has been going round the community killing members of rival cult group on the pretext that he has the mandate to kill those he believed were cultists who have used his name to commit crime in the community.
