

One Killed as Carnival Turns Bloody in Osun

One person was reportedly killed in Igbaye town, Odo-Otin Local Government Area of Osun state after a carnival celebration allegedly turns bloody yesterday.

Some youths were celebrating carnival in the town yesterday afternoon when misunderstanding was said to have ensued between two groups in the community.

According to one source, the crisis was connected with the community monarchy's dispute, while another resident said it was purely a celebration that went bad among youths in the town.

However, an eyewitness, Rasheed Damola said the crisis started at the carnival ground after an argument ensued between two groups within the event's venue and the situation escalated into a free-for-all.

"Some people started throwing bottles, clubs and stones like those at the event scampered for safety."
