LOKOJA— TRAGEDY struck last Sunday in Mangongo in Kogi State as a 23 year-old man allegedly dropped some quantities of a rat poison otherwise called (Otapiapia) inside a pot of soup of his elder brother killing three members of the family.

The alleged perpetrator of the heinous crime whose name was given as Adesinmi Joseph Alkali Vanguard gathered had been in the habit of threatening his elder brother and wife at any slightest provocation saying that he would one day wipe out the entire family.

A neighbour who pleaded for anonymity when our correspondent called at the residents of the victims said amidst tears that "he has succeeded in doing his worst and has gone into hiding" . "Let us see weather he has the courage to come out and face the wrath of the law"

Vanguard further learnt that the suspect dropped the poison in the pot of the victims of the food poisoning identified as Mr. and Mrs. Babatunde Alkali as well as their 10 year -old son in the evening of last Sunday.

Unknown to the prospective victims, they gleefully prepared Amala local stable food and eat it with the soup and thereafter started complaining of stomach pain at midnight until members of the extended family extended help to them by rushing them to St. Magret Hospital at Okene where the medical team later confirmed three of them dead before down.

This is a kind of inhuman act and the culprit should be arrested dead or alive to face the wrath of the law

Thanks to vanguard for reporting the crime. It should be a lesson to others. The deceased and the family took the man,s threats for granted and never knew that he meant it.however the family is gone let him,adesinmi, lives forever never at all shall he die.
