A suspected member of a robbery gang met his Waterloo Tuesday after he was lynched by an angry mob on Broad Street, Lagos Island.

This is just as the identity of the lifeless body of a lady found in a bush around Owutu area of Lagos, weekend, has been identified as that of one Ijeoma, however, detectives investigating the circumstance surrounding the murder, Tuesday, said they were yet to trace the deceased family

The deceased and members of his gang reportedly stormed a Bureau-de Change on 19, Broad Street at about 4 a.m. They were said to have shot the night guard in their attempt to break into the bureau-de-change.

The gun shot reportedly alerted other night guards, who rushed to their colleague's rescue. Sighting the guards, the robbers took to their heels. But one of them was unlucky as he was caught and lynched before the arrival of policemen.

The wounded guard identified as Ayeni Timothy was rushed to the hospital, where Police sources said he was responding to treatment.

Meanwhile, investigation into the murder of the late Ijeoma revealed that she was last seen in the company of one Chima, at Top World Ventures, Agbede, in Owutu area, where Chima reportedly introduced the deceased as his sister.

However, two days later, the lifeless body of Ijeoma was discovered by one Mrs Njoku, who reportedly went to ease

On closer examination of the body, it was revealed that a deep gash was inflicted on the deceased, which suggested that she could have been stabbed to death.

These is the type of justice we got in nigeria.surposing the robber got to the police station,there wouldnt have been justice.No justice against those evilmen who connive with contractors.instead of executing the job they took money for,they deliberately dug pits along the expressway to acquire evil power,causing accidents,people loosing their lives for sacrifices.lets get democracy,after geting democracy,time will come for accountability.

Too many killings these days, could it be ritualistically or satanic related?
How come when Election is almost over ?
Untill Nigerian politicians and Law-Enforcement agents clamp down hard on the trade of human parts like fish, the killings may never stop.

Don't be suprised if by mere coincidence, you may be served human flesh in a public Resturant in Nigeria? The sooner we stop this mess, the more civilized we shall be.
