Asaba—A middle-aged suspected kidnapper, who was reportedly accused of kidnapping a three-year-old baby girl in the full glare of the public, has been burnt to death by an angry mob in Jesse, Delta State.

The suspected kidnapper, whose identity was given by police as Edisiri Oyawiri, allegedly kidnapped the child at about 6p.m., last Sunday and when the baby was traced to his house, he was dragged to the palace of the monarch of the community before he was finally taken away to face jungle justice.

Delta State Police Public Relations Officer, Mr. Charles Muka confirmed the incident, saying there was the “kidnapping of the three years old baby daughter of Mr. Avwe London.

“She was kidnapped on May 22, 2011 at about 1800 hours by one Edisiri Oyawiri of Ejenesa village. The baby was traced to his house at 1900 hours but the mob overpowered both the police and the king, took him away and set him ablaze at Jesse Roundabout,” he said.

Muka also told our reporter in Asaba, yesterday, that a patrol team attached to Ughelli Police Divisional Office arrested a three-man car syndicate and recovered a Volkswagen Golf car, which they claimed was stolen from the owner in Baylesa.

Though I don't like jungle justice, this will be a good example for all that are resorting to "Quick Fix" in the name of making money. This is just the beginning. NEMESIS!!!!!!!!!!!!

I like the application of that jungle justice. I trust our police to release the guy if he finally goes to the station. Oh!!!!!! The guy first tasted a small hell fire on earth before going to the main hell fire. Sorry.

Barbaric or not, time is running out, if they know that when they kidnap or steal, the answer will be jungle justice or burning, then people will think twice, this will serve as deterrent to other wishing to join the business. We all are working towards a free crime society, if those boys think it's the best way out, so be it. Destiny is not by chance but by choice, if they want to continue, so be it, I think those want to make their own area free of crime. Don't kidnap or commit crime. Nigerians don't sleep with the two eyes close. The best bet is to make our country a crime free country so that people can sleep with both eyes close. Nigeria will get there soon, it's a matter of time.....

It is questionable how the mob could possibly overpower armed policemen/women and in their presence, the suspect was killed? Either the police should be held in contempt, abating and in support of jungle justice or gross negligence of obligation and duty. Unless this kind of behaviour is controlled, the same mob may one day, administer the same jungle justice to the Police.
