Members of the Boko Haram sect were also reported to have assassinated the District Head of Geidam, in Yobe State, Mustapha Geidam as well as a 60 year-old Islamic cleric in Konduga, a town near Maiduguri. Sheik Saina Alhaji Ajiya. The killings occurred on Sunday night.

The district head, Mustapha Geidam, was a former protocol officer to Senator Bukar Ibrahim.

He was assassinated in front of his residence after the Maghreb prayers.

Confirming Mustapha's assassination, Tanko Lawan, Yobe's Police Commissioner, said the district head was relaxing in front of his residence when he was attacked and killed, adding that the Boko Haram had sent him a letter, alerting him that he had been marked for death and would be killed unless he relocated from his palace.

Also, confirming the killing of the Sheik Ajiya, Borno State Police Spokesman, Mr. Samuel Tizhe, said he was killed after Boko Haram hit men forcefully entered his residence and fired several fatal shots into his head and chest in front of his family. No arrests have been made following the assassinations.

Let Boko Haram plot bomb in the mosque or outside the mosque when the people will be coming out from the mosque so that the northerner muslims can encounter what Christian in the north encountered

It seems all criminals, armed robbers and hired assassins now bear boko haram. This also shows that not all moslems are boko haram but all boko haram are moslems.

If the village head received death threat from Boko Haram, what was the police doing? Why did the police failed to provide the men some sort of plain cloth security? Nigerian police are so archaic that they are only fit to secure a poultry pen. It is important for the nation to start making a master plan for local policing or else soon nobody will be able to work the street of Nigeria any more.

"When bad men combine, the good must associate; else they will fall one by one, an unprofitable sacrifice in a contemptible struggle. All it takes for evil to prevail is for the good men to do nothing. Men are qualified for civil liberty in exact proportion to their disposition to put moral chains upon their own appetites..."

~Edmund Burke, 1770

Thoughts on the Cause of Present Discontents".

I could never understand why at any point in time, anyone in the north thought or still thinks that killing off persons based on religious or ideological convictions can ever be justified by any moral law. No matter how any holy book, like the bible or the quran is stretched for such utility by a depraved mind, it just didn't and would never fit into the dominating liberal humanism and very potent scientific paradigms of modern times.

Those who have been calling on the government to dialogue with the boko haram terrorist sect should know by now that they are not ready for that. With the renewed spate of killings with impunity that they have carried out daily, it is obvious that one of the reasons they hate Western Education is that they don't understand the language, They are riding rough shod over the North and the leaders there are saying they would no longer embark on such destruction of lives and property again. I just hope someone or a group of persons who have personal scores to settle are not taking advantage of the sects activities to carry out their own agenda on their enemies. In the interim the Directorate of State Security (DSS) should expedite action in their investigation so as to enable the Nigerian nation put boko haram where it belongs - the dust bin of history.
